

DENNIS CHANEY

"I like several things about Blueprint® minerals – they're coarse, superior products that perform well and they offer a good selection with a consumption rate that is right on target for most. Blueprint also incorporates a lot of technology that other products don't. Fescue is a big issue in my area and since switching most of my customers to Blueprint products, we have seen better conception rates. Plus, the cost difference equates to pennies per day and customers are saving money in the long run by not having to deal with health issues and open cows. I also like Hubbard's level of service. There are not many companies or representatives out there willing to offer as much assistance and it's no comparison to those I've dealt with in the past."
